

RESEARCH
PROGRAM ON
Livestock and Fish

More meat, milk and fish by and for the poor

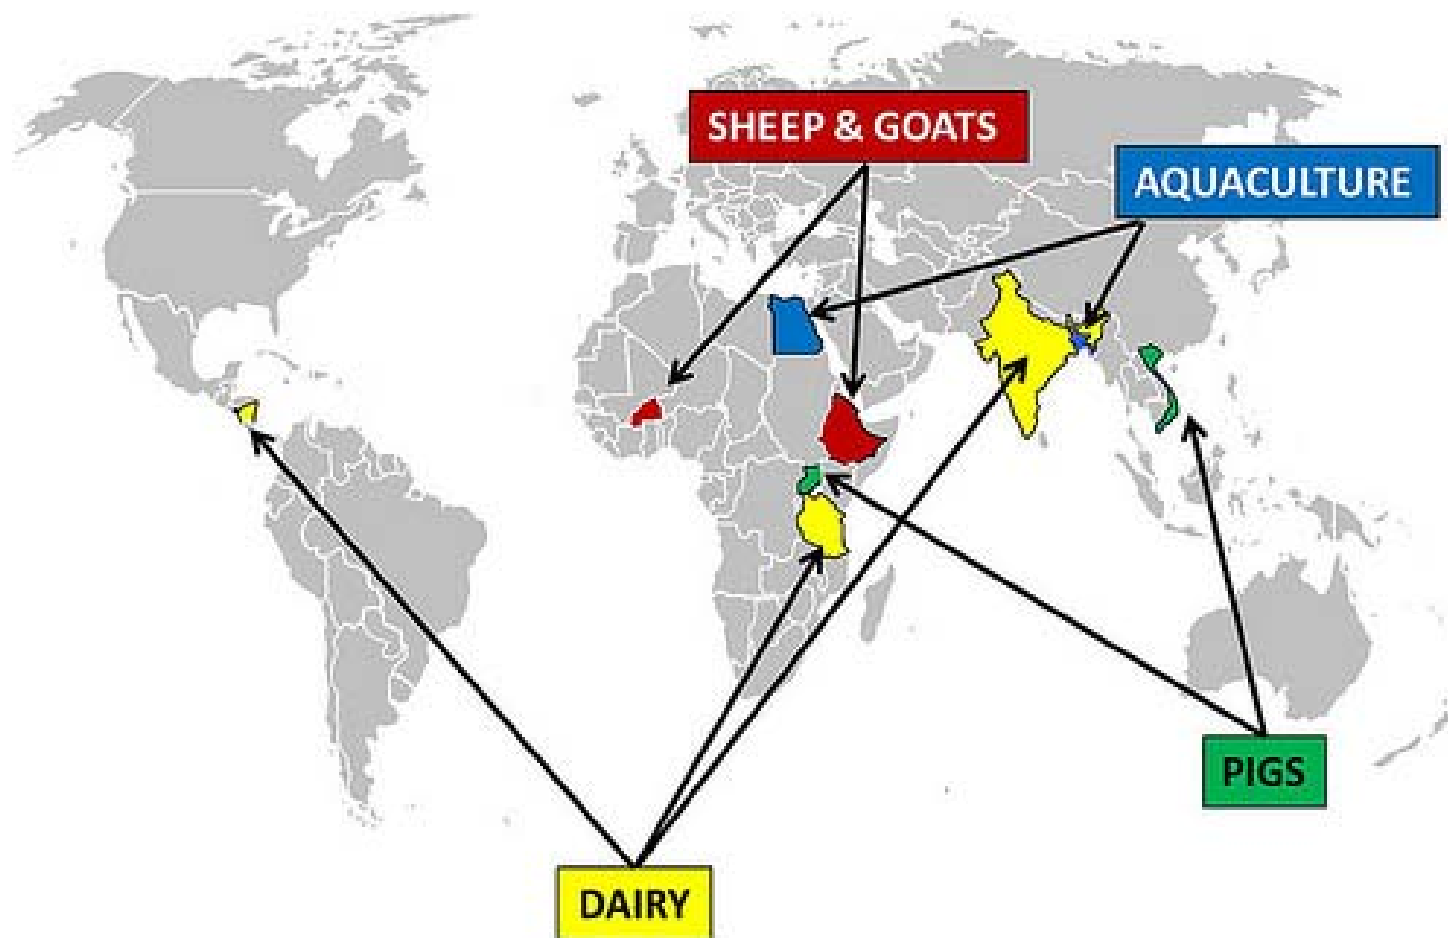

Gender Research in the Livestock and Fish CG Research program

Annet A. Mulema

CGIAR Gender and Agriculture Research Network Annual Meeting, IRRI, Philippines, 19-23 January 2015

Livestock and fish value chain countries

Gender strategic research

- Gender capacity development
 - Rapid assessment tools for partner identification, gender capacity needs and interest in Gender Transformative Approaches (GTAs)
- Empowerment and GTA
 - GTA value chain analysis tools
 - Social media strategy to encourage social change in gender norms in Tanzania (for crop and goat project)
 - Global gender norms study done in Bangladesh (with AAS); in TZ in 2015
- Resource Ownership
 - Study on “men and women’s perceptions of resource ownership and their implications on food security in Tanzania, Ethiopia and Nicaragua”
 - Product: journal article

Gender strategic research

- Value chain analysis
 - Gender analysis of value chains to identify the gendered constraints and opportunities
 - Fish retailer gender analysis (in rural Egypt)
 - Gender and aquaculture technology adoption study: - focusing on dissemination approaches (in Bangladesh)
- Gender and hubs approach
 - Effectiveness of East Africa Dairy Development hubs approach in involving women in Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania

Gender integrated research

- KIT support to integrate gender in L&F technological flagships
- Nutrition
 - Impact of dairy hubs on human nutrition in Tanzania
 - Consumer study on role of fish in poor people's diets in Egypt
- Sheep fattening in Ethiopia
 - Assessment of gender relations in sheep fattening
- Community-based sheep breeding in Ethiopia
 - Comprehensive evaluation of the community-based sheep breeding program from a gender perspective